THREE FRIENDS, THREE DISASTERS

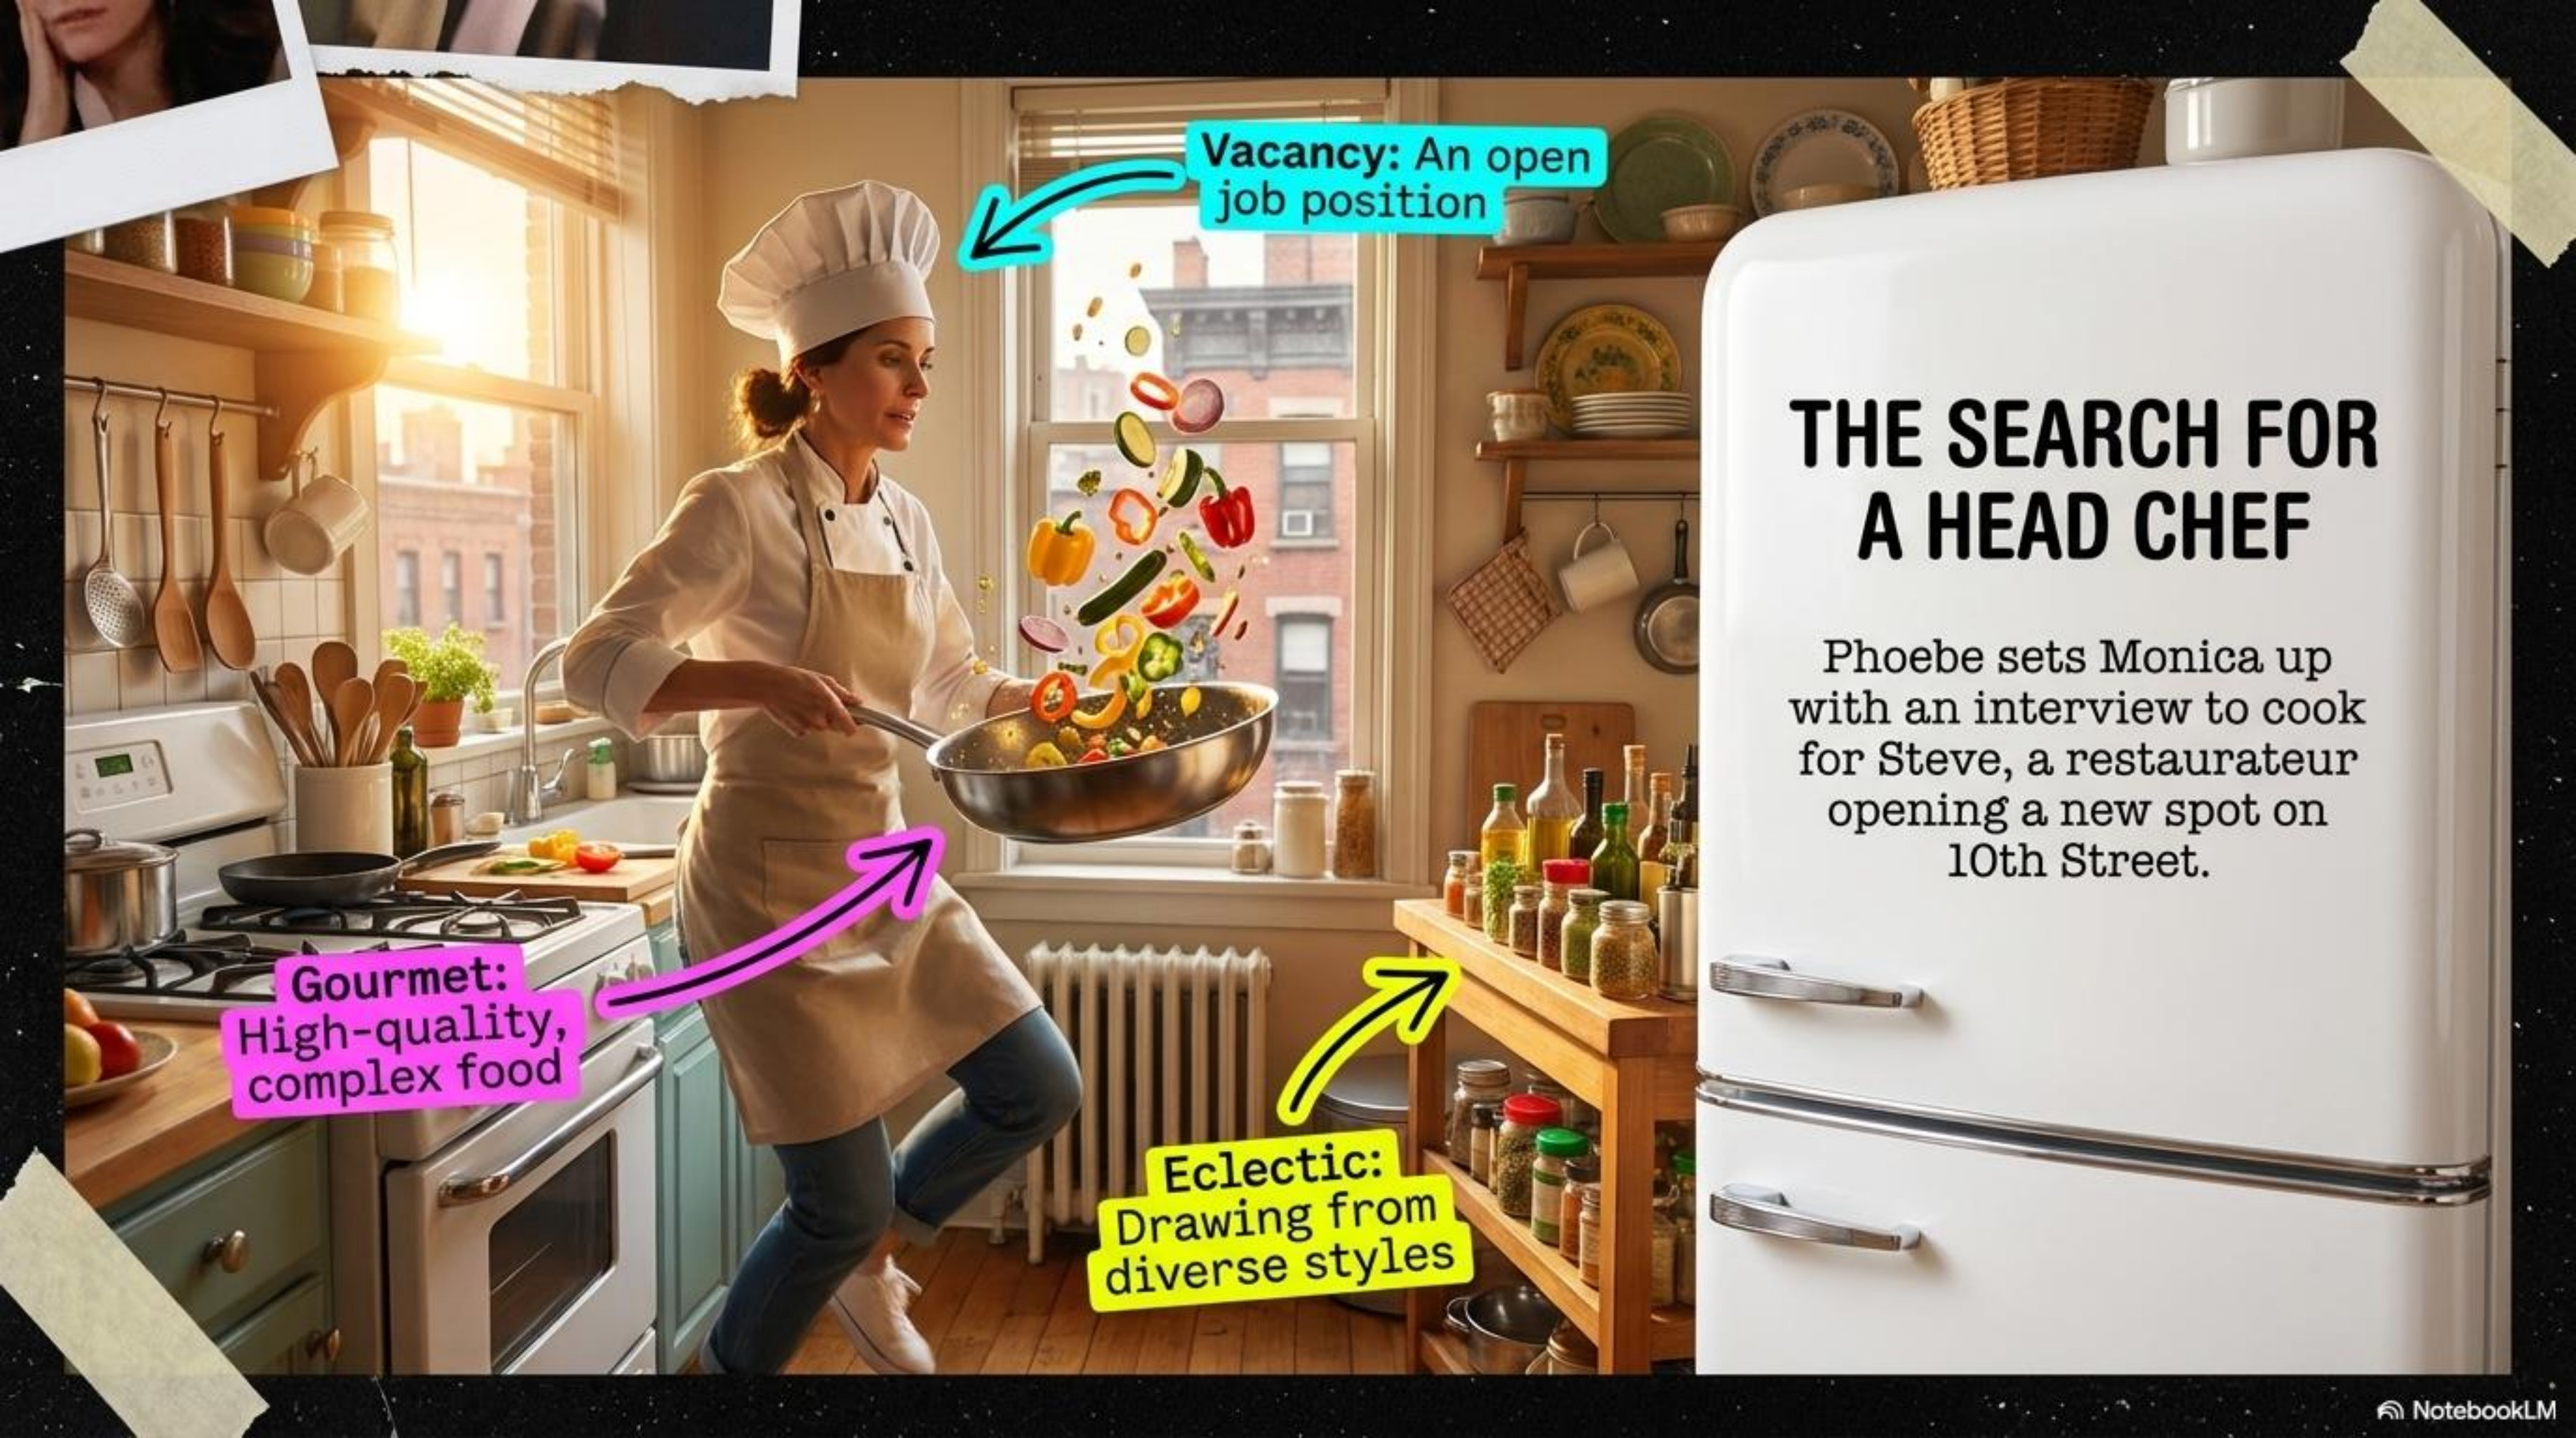

Monica's Audition
(The Chef)

Chandler's Promotion
(The Data Processor)

Ross's Date
(The Museum Colleague)

Vacancy: An open job position

THE SEARCH FOR A HEAD CHEF

Phoebe sets Monica up with an interview to cook for Steve, a restaurateur opening a new spot on 10th Street.

Gourmet:
High-quality,
complex food

Eclectic:
Drawing from diverse styles

The Waitress Dilemma

Monica hires Wendy for $10/hour because she is a Professional.

When Wendy bails (cancels), a desperate Monica has to beg Rachel—an Amateur—to help for $20/hour.

Steve's Escalating Cravings

Stoned (Under the influence of marijuana). Steve arrives high.

Craving (An intense desire to eat). He ignores the fancy food.

Tartlet (A small pastry). A word Steve repeats until it loses all meaning.

Steve drowns gummy bears in a bowl of Sugar-O's cereal and punch, ruining Monica's audition.

Stoned:
Under the influence of marijuana

Craving:
An intense desire to eat

Tartlet:
A small pastry

The Five-Year Temp Job

Chandler has worked in data processing for five years, yet still calls it a temporary job.

Promotion:
Big AI offers him a role as a supervisor.

Resign: Chandler panics and quits to avoid admitting this is his actual career.

8.5 Hours of Testing

Chandler takes a grueling career test to find his ultimate dream job.

Aptitude: A natural ability to do something.

Suited: Perfectly matched for a specific role.

The tragic result? He is ideally suited for data processing at a Multinational Corporation—the exact job he just quit.

The Ultimate Corporate Trap

An Acronym (a word formed from the first letters of other words).

Chandler is officially trapped as a Supervisor yelling at his employees about the W.E.N.U.S. at midnight.

The Bug Lady and The Monkey

Ross takes Celia on a date. He hopes his pet monkey, Marcel, will help win her over.

Magnet: Joey claims the monkey is a chick magnet

(Metaphorically pulling women in).

Curator: Celia's job managing the museum's insect collection.

Reality: Marcel grabs Celia's hair and ruins the moment.

The Dirty Talk Dilemma

Celia asks Ross to talk dirty.
He completely freezes.

1. Panic:

Ross loses
his nerve. lu

2. Clinical:

Instead of being romantic, he awkwardly blurts out a medical anatomy word. lu

3. Cuddle:

The romantic mood dies, and they just hold each other. lu

The Coaching Session

Joey forces Ross to rehearse what to say on his next date.

Eavesdrop: To secretly listen to someone else's conversation.

Out of Context: Chandler walks in at the exact wrong moment, hearing a deeply uncomfortable conversation without knowing the backstory.

Ross eventually masters it, but his story takes so long, they end up exhausted and just cuddle again.

Expectation vs. Reality

- | | | |
|----|---|--|
| 1. | Monica: Impress Steve and land a Head Chef job. | Reality: Cancels the dinner while a stoned man makes gummy-bear cereal soup. |
| 2. | Chandler: Quit his job to pursue a meaningful, cool career. | Reality: Gets a massive raise to return to the exact same job, now with more stress. |
| 3. | Ross: Use dirty talk to seduce his museum colleague. | Reality: Tells a story so long and elaborate that they both fall asleep cuddling. |

Translating 90s Sitcom Slang

The Slang: Blazed up a doobie

Standard English: Smoked marijuana.

Context: Phoebe explaining why Steve is acting so weird.

The Slang: Smack my ass and call me Judy!

Standard English: An exclamation of extreme surprise and delight.

Context: Steve tasting Monica's gourmet ravioli before the drugs fully kick in.

Comedic Karma

The final scene delivers instant consequences for Steve ruining Monica's night.

1 Revenge: Phoebe gives Steve an intensely painful massage.

2 Agony: Steve screams as she drives her elbows into his back.

Bring It To Life

Discuss these prompts using the vocabulary from the episode:

1. Have you ever quit a job suddenly, or felt trapped in a role you didn't want?
2. Describe a dinner party or date where things went completely out of context or off plan.
3. Have you ever prepared a gourmet meal for someone? What did you make?
